Class Poem 1959

The sad day of parting from our high school so dear
Has reached us suddenly in June of this year.
We have loved her walls so shelteringly kind,
We regret that the world calls and we'll leave her to find
Work and happiness elsewhere, new homes and new friends,
Mistakes, sorrows, joys, mingled with cares without amends.
The old must give way to the new everyday.
Traditions are useless, if to each added day,
They bring nothing of sentiment simple and sure.
Goodbye, Preston High, with your books and your teachers.
In your sacred traditions and sincere love so pure
You have given us much of true worth that endures.

Sandra Curtis . . . Wills her pony tail to anyone who wants it because Jerry does not like it.

James Geer . . . Wills his F.F.A. jacket to Miss Kuzmack.

Margaret Holbert . . . Wills her ability to get to Hancock on Tuesday nights to Jean Ann Evanitsky.

Barbara Hyde . . . Wills her books to anyone that can carry them.

Nancy Jarmusik . . . Wills her arguments to Elaine Roney.

Frank Kulikowski . . . Wills his shyness to Loren Curtis.

Christina Kulesza . . . Wills her letter writing to anyone who likes to write every night.

Edward Laskowski . . . Wills his hair style to Dallas Decker.

Donna Mayo . . . Wills her ability to swing a pole to any monkey that wants it.

Joseph Myskiew . . . Wills the curl in the middle of his forehead to Judy Stephens.

Eileen Neild . . . Wills her smile to Mr. Phillips.

Joy Owen . . . Wills her Monday sickness to any doctor that can cure it.

Beverly Paluch . . . Wills her quietness to Muriel Fariello.

Patricia Rooney . . . Wills her score keeping book to the next scorekeeper.

Wendell Sampson . . . Wills his height to Peter Watson.

Barbara Piltz. . . Wills her sea shells to the senior class.

We, the Seniors, will to the Juniors our place in the halls and corners as well as our space in the hearts of the teachers who have so bravely struggled to put us in this position as graduates.

To the Sophomores, the privilege of sitting next to the class of 1960 in the assembly.

To the Freshmen, the dignity of being Sophomores, our sister class, and one year nearer becoming graduates.

Do You Remember When?

James and Frank weren't drinking soda?

Pat wasn't late for the basketball trips?

Donna had a stitch in her lip from swinging on a pole?

Sandra wasn't wearing a diamond?

Joseph wasn't helping Frank and Jim?

Chrissy wasn't worrying about D-a-a-avid?

Margi wasn't planning to be in Hancock?

Joy was eating her lunches regularly?

Wendell was getting a new suit for Tom's wedding?

Eddie was agreeing with the girls in the class?

Eileen wasn't?????

Piltzie wasn't in a beauty contest?

Beverly made so much noise that we had to sell magazines.

Barb Hyde wasn't reading and asking "where are you now"?

Nancy wasn't chewing gum?
